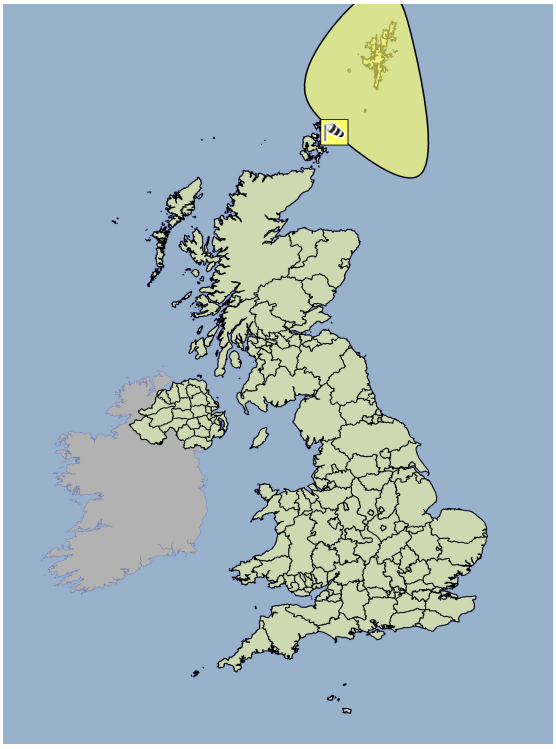
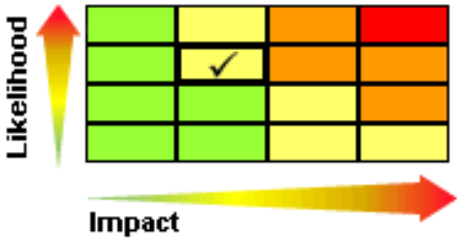
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
The deep depression to the west of Scotland is slowly filling, so winds in its circulation are decreasing. However, they remain strong over Shetland where cold air from Scandinavia meets milder Atlantic air.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Wind

Valid from 22:15 on Sun, 26th Jan 2014 until 07:00 on Mon, 27th Jan 2014

Winds will remain strong over the Northern Isles into Monday morning, with gusts of around 70 MPH accompanied by rain, sleet or snow.

The public should be aware of the risk of disruption to travel.

This is an update to the warning issued on Saturday to take account of decreasing winds over other parts of northern and northwestern Scotland.
